Princeton Hopes for Better Football As Bleak Decade of '70s Nears an End

The 1970s, the worst decade Princeton football has experienced in the 11 that the sport has been played here, has one brief season to go. During that time, only one year above the .500 mark was recorded; the 1-8 1973 season went into the books as the poorest in more than a century; and two head coaches departed somewhat precipitously. It has been an era of unprecedented turmoil, and one so pockmarked by defeat that the Tigers have done better than break even against only one (Columbia) of their traditional Ivy League opponents in the nine games they have played against each.

Will the final year of the 1970s see a definitive turning point — one that is marked by ability to win at least five games and earn a berth in the league's first division? It was nine long years ago that the Orange and Black last finished above .500, the year it last earned a berth among the top four.

Less than three weeks before the 1979 season begins against defending champion Dartmouth at Hanover, two intangible factors are among the primary barriers to a Princeton success story. One is the need to gain momentum, for the players to achieve the ability to believe that they are a shade better than the guys on the other side of the line. It comes from a winning tradition, and it is handed down from one team to another just as surely as the uniforms are inherited by the sophomores from the graduating seniors.

Yale has it to a degree that is the envy of every other team among the Ivies — particularly Princeton, which last topped the invariably skilled Elis a baker's dozen years ago. Dartmouth has it — the current decade has seen the Green finish in a least a tie for first place five years in the last nine. Brown, no better than seventh in the composite standings since 1956, has joined the club just lately, on the strength of a fine 27-8-1 record under Coach John Anderson in the last four years. When the clock begins to run out in a tight game, the momentum generated by such deserved confidence more often than not tips the balance in favor of the team that has earned it.

Princeton's other hurdle in the early action is the first third of the 1979 schedule — as difficult an opening set of three games as the Tigers have ever faced. Two of them are on the road, both against teams given an excellent shot at winning the league championship, while in between trips to Hanover and Providence, Rutgers, one of the East's best independents will come to Palmer Stadium to open the season here.

Such an assignment for a team uncertain of itself at the outset has the potential to make the balance of the season another marked by more than its share of near-misses and an occasional rout. While it is true that only Yale, of the last six games on the schedule, seems assured of being solid again, it may be more than a still-rebuilding team can do to perform well in its last half-dozen games if it is without a victory in its first three.

Princeton's chances for improvement this fall will,

School Board Hoping NLRB Will Expedite Its Case Concerning Secondary Boycott at Princeton High

Following regular National Labor Relations Board procedures, the Newark office of the NLRB has begun investigating the Princeton High School construction situation to see whether there is unfair labor practice.

Princeton's school board filed with the NLRB August 28, asking the labor body to stop Local 269 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers from picketing the high school remodeling site.

School board counsel James McLaughlin said on Tuesday that NLRB policy is to "expedite" cases relating to a secondary boycott, which could speed up the Princeton school board case.

Meanwhile, all the work on such potential hazards as exposed wiring has been completed in the high school building in time for this Wednesday's opening of schools, according to William Karch, who directs maintenance and facilities. His crews and those of Jaden Electric tucked all the wires in safely, Mr. Karch reported.

The Princeton school board took its case to the NLRB at the direction of Superior Court Judge Hervey S. Moore. When Local 269 appeared before Judge Moore on August 23, under a show-cause order obtained by the school board to compel the union to show why it shouldn't stop picketing the high school site, Judge Moore said the board should go first to the NLRB. If that body ruled unfavorably, he said, the board could return to court and he himself would rule.

Local 269 set up so-called "informational pickets" at the high school site last May because one of the school board's remodeling contractors — Jaden Electric — is a non-union employer. Union workers for other contractors have declined to cross the picket line and all work except electrical work done by Jaden has been at a standstill since May.

But school must go on. In its first public meeting of the new academic year Tuesday night, the board faced an agenda of bids, cost increases and personnel changes not much different from the agendas of pre-NLRB meetings.

Gasoline and maintenance costs have zoomed so high that all bus contractors refused to renew their existing contracts. In July, four "double routes" were advertised for bid. A single bidder came forward. The board rejected his bids and re-advertised them. At the second bid, the same contractor — Kenneth Conover — bid on the four double routes at a reduction of 2.5 percent under his previous bid. Nobody else bid.

One of his bids, for Riverside and Princeton High School, was almost twice what last year's contractor received: $12,440 instead of $6,287.60. Mr. Conover bid $12,440 for each of the four routes. The 1978-79 prices for the other three were $8,862, $9,288 and $9,523.80.

The state re-imburse Princeton 100 percent for this money, but board secretary William Evans says that doesn't necessarily mean the board accepts such bids casually. Mr. Evans says he didn't think the Conover bids were too bad, considering the market.

On last year's $6,287 contract, Mr. Evans thinks the contractor "lost his shirt." If the school system had owned the bus and had the driver on its payroll, he estimated, it would have cost $10,000 to run the route.

All routes except the four above are run by the school system itself.

In personnel matters, the board will note the return to the guidance department of Marvin Trotman, who has been assistant principal of the high school while Norman van Arsdalen was on sabbatical. Mr. van Arsdalen has now returned.

THREE ARE FREE

Adult School Courses. Several free courses will be offered this fall by the Princeton Adult School. It's the school's 40th birthday, and the free courses are the Princeton Adult School's own gift to the Princeton community.

In addition, there will be the usual curriculum in the humanities, sciences, arts and special skills.

The free courses are a class in test-taking skills for adults, to be given by James Dineen and Robert Moulthrop of the staff of Educational Testing Service; a course in crime prevention offered by Sgt. Thomas Michaud of the Borough police force and a 12-session class on first aid and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) sponsored by the Red Cross.

Registration is required, even though the courses are free, and those who are interested have been advised to register early because enrollment will be limited.

Registration has been scheduled for Thursday, September 13 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of Princeton

High School. The fall semester will begin the night of Tuesday, September 25, continuing on Tuesday and Thursday nights for ten weeks. Several short courses will meet for a shorter period of time.

New in Literature. New courses in literature will be offered this fall. Frederick Gerstell will give a class on "The Satiric Muse," exploring the novels of Anthony Powell and Evelyn Waugh. The writings of C. S. Lewis will be the subject of a course by Sister Dorothy Holmes. Herman Ward will teach a course on Shakespeare with emphasis on the acting of Shakespeare's plays.

Paola Billeloch, who has taught Italian at the Adult School for several years, will lead students interested in reading selected masterpieces in the Italian language. Dorothy Ormsby will teach "Introduction to Biblical Hebrew" in which students, as part of their language study, will read and discuss selections from the Bible.

Romanesque and Gothic cathedrals will be the subject of a course by Penelope Jones, and American furniture the subject of a course by Nancy Sommers. She will discuss American furniture made between 1620 and 1970.

Current issues are the subject of several offerings. Douglas Kelbaugh will give a course on "The Solar Home."

Scientists may take Erling Dorf's "Introductory Geology: Geologic Processes." Bob Levine will lead a group in wine-tasting.

The school is also offering three cooking classes: one in basic principles, one in French cooking and one devoted to the Chinese cuisine.

Music. Performers, or those who would like to be, may sign up for beginning or more advanced classes in folk guitar, recorder and piano. There will be a course on the symphony.

Photography, financial planning (a four-week course), bookbinding, picture-framing, bird-watching, upholstery, creative writing, methods for improving the memory and concentration and a class in rare books and manuscripts are all in the catalogue.

This fall's studio courses will include a class in painting with oil and acrylics to be given by Helen Schwartz and a class in drawing by Amy Kassiola. Beginning and advanced courses have also been planned.

Jean Mahoney will teach knitters to make an Aran sweater, Susan Kittredge will teach quilting and applique and Mitzi Savini will give a class in making Christmas crafts.

Foreign languages to be offered this fall are Italian, French, Russian, Arabic, German, Spanish and Latin, many of them offered at several levels of skill.

Typing and accounting will be offered in three courses and there will be a High School Equivalency Program in social studies and mathematics.

On the recreational side, the Adult School has planned classes in beginning and intermediate disco dancing, square dancing, yoga, Swedish gymnastics, tennis, modern dance and bridge.

Classes are scheduled for Princeton High School; however, the unexpected changes in the renovation schedule may mean that some adjustments in time and place may have to be made.

Newly-Formed 'Borough Action Group' Planning Campaign to Back Referendum on Consolidation

"We believe Princeton is one community, and it's time we managed our government that way," declared Ingrid Reed this week, announcing formation of a Borough citizens group supporting consolidation of Borough and Township.

The group, to be known as the "Borough Action Group," will have as its co-chairmen Mrs. Reed and William H. Walker II. A Democrat, Mrs. Reed is head of the Mercer County Planning Board. She lives at 21 Maple Street. Mr. Walker, a Republican, is a former member of Borough Council and the Princeton Regional Planning Board. His home is at 168 Westcott Road.

The issue of consolidation, on which voters will pass November 6, will be discussed this Thursday at a forum sponsored by the Republican Association, to be held at 8 p.m. at John Witherspoon School. The public is invited.

Speakers will be William Selden and Margaret Broadwater, chairment of the Joint Consolidation Study Commission, which unanimously recommended consolidation.

Both Mr. Selden and Mrs. Broadwater have said they will not join pro-consolidation groups formed in Borough and Township. The Commission itself will not hold meetings any more.

"I will speak strongly in support of the report," Mr. Selden explained, "but it would be inappropriate for me, as co-chairman of the Study Commission, to be a member of a campaign committee."

"It is my primary duty," Mrs. Broadwater stated, "to speak on the report and the work of the Commission, unincumbered by group membership that might lead to confusion in the mind of the public on the role of the Commission to study consolidation objectively."

Treasurer Named. Treasurer for the pro-consolidation Borough group is Charles St. John, 283 Prospect Avenue, to whom contributions may be mailed. Township residents who would like to help the pro-consolidation campaign are asked to send contributions to Christopher Tarr, 213 State Road.

Deborah Vink is campaign co-ordinator for the Borough Action Group and headquarters will be at her home, 32 Edwards Place, 921-2542.

Other Borough residents in the Borough Action Group are Louise Bessire, 25 Mercer Street; Wilbert Brooks, 188 John Street; Neils H. Neilsen, 99 Moore; Ann O'Neill, 53 Gordon Way; Henry Powsner, 4 Queenston Place; James C. Sayen, 108 Mercer Street; Virginia B. Selden, 58 Westcott Road; Chester R. Stroup, 8 Erdman Avenue; Letitia Ufford, 150 Mercer Street; James Vink, 32 Edwards Place and Mary Wisnovsky, 179 Prospect.

"The group is amazingly bipartisan," Mrs. Reed said. "It represents a broad range of Borough interests, neighborhoods and political philosophies."

"Our first goal is to get Borough voters to read carefully the report in which the Study Commission weighed the advantages and disadvantages of municipal merger," she continued.

Real Savings Possible. "Many of the questions raised about consolidation are already answered in that report. We believe it thoroughly dispels the usual anxieties about taxes and differences in bonded indebtedness."

"We will not pay more, and real savings are possible in the future. The Study Commission shows that a unified government can be more efficient and more effective.

"To keep the special qualities of the Borough part of our community, we need a community-wide commitment to it. And we, in what is not the Borough, need to participate in the big decisions facing the Township area around us."

Meanwhile, the Township group supporting consolidation announced three new members this week. They are Elizabeth (Duffy) Hutter, Van Dyke Road, a former Republican member of Township Committee and currently a member of the Planning Board; Thomas P. Cook, 7 Random Road, Princeton attorney and former counsel for the Princeton school board and Walton Johnson, 243 Ewing, member of the faculty at Livingstone College, Rutgers University, and a director of the Witherspoon-Jackson Corporation dedicated to providing minority housing.

Late this month, the Commission will mail copies of the summary of the report, contained in chapters I and VII, to all Princeton citizens. Money for this distribution was included in the Commission's original budget, which the two governing bodies approved when the Commission was formed.

The public library has 50 copies of the full report which may be borrowed for two weeks. There are also copies of the report at both municipal buildings.

Borough residents who would like to work with the Borough Action Group are asked to call Mrs. Reed at 921-1470. Township residents who are interested in working with the pro-consolidation group in the Township, should call Martha Hartmann, 921-6267.

Myers on plans and specifications. Because many people who have volunteered to help have been away on vacation, movement on plans has been slow, the seniors say.

Increasing costs of gas, electricity and insurance are constricting the budget of the Princeton Public Library, and Council will consider on Thursday a memo from librarian Robert Staples outlining the problem.

The library is running low on money to pay these bills, and also on money to buy building supplies, Mr. Staples says. Although it can draw money from other parts of its budget, the library would like to know whether Council -- and presumably Township Committee also -- would be willing to make additional appropriations.

If more people rode bikes, there would be more parking spaces for cars. The First National Bank has offered to provide bike racks around the Borough as a contribution toward easing tight parking, and Council will consider the offer Thursday.

Next Tuesday, Council will hold public hearing on the Quarry Park development appropriation (see elsewhere, "Topics of the Town"), on an ordinance prohibiting parking between curb and sidewalk and an ordinance aligning Borough procedures regarding appointment and removal of the Borough administrator, with state statutes.

CYCLIST BLAMED

For Unprovoked Attack. "An unprovoked attack" is the way Township police are describing the assault last week of a Russell Road resident by a motorcyclist.

Police report the victim was driving on Edgerstone, preparing to make a left turn on Winant when a motorcyclist started yelling at him at the intersection. As the driver continued on, the cyclist followed him.

When the victim stopped at the intersection of Hun and Russell Road, the cyclist got off his motorcycle, went over to the car and punched the victim in the face, cutting his upper lip.

The cyclist was described as a white male, with light hair, wearing glasses or goggles and a red helmet. He is believed to have been operating a Yamaha.

TRUCK HITS POLE

Between Harriet and Snowden. Shortly after 5 last Wednesday morning, a truck crossed into the opposite lane on Nassau Street, jumped the curb and struck a service pole between Harriet Drive and Snowden Lane.

The driver, 17-year-old John H. Poinsett of Mount Holly sustained lacerations of the mouth, both hands and left arm but refused medical aid. He was charged with drunken driving by Ptl. William Fitch.

The driver told Ptl. Fitch that he felt the truck slide a little when he put on his brakes as he approached a traffic light. When he started to "counter steer," he said, he felt the impact of striking the pole.

"The Finest in Food For Your Table Since 1912!"

'Markham Square' Townhouse Project Starts With Short Trip for 90-Year Old Bush House

HOUSE ON THE MOVE: The former Bush house - or McCosh house, if you're an antiquarian - on Nassau and Markham is being moved 26 feet toward Nassau and 19 feet toward Wilton Street as the Design Interface firm prepares its "Markham Square" townhouses. Two duplex apartments will be arranged inside the old house, and new townhouses constructed on two sides. A new foundation will be built up to two feet below the level of the house, and the house will then be lowered to the new foundation.

Tuesday was moving day for the Bush house. It didn't move far and in fact by press time on Tuesday, it had hardly moved at all. But then, it didn't have far to go.

The house is known as the Bush house because Mr. and Mrs. George Bush have owned it and lived in it and in fact, only moved out on August 1 - just in time. It is also known as the McCosh house, because architect Alexander Page Brown designed it around 1887 for President James McCosh when he retired as president of Princeton University.

It will now be the linchpin of J. Robert Hillier's "Markham Square" townhouses. Two will be built near the old house, at the corner of Nassau and Markham, and the remaining eight to the rear, with a new private road providing access. The new structures will be shingle and local brick to blend everything in.

Clifford Zink, young restoration specialist, has been retained by Mr. Hillier's Design Interface to restore and renovate the house.

Nearly a Century Ago. He plans to return the outside to the way it looked in 1887. The inside will be renovated and converted into a pair of duplex homes, dividing the big house in a kind of zig-zag split.

The larger of the two sections will have three bedrooms, living-room, dining-room, family-room and kitchen. The smaller will have two bedrooms, living-room, dining-room and kitchen.

The existing foyer and its stairway will be retained. The bathrooms, dating to 1915, will be modernized.

Incidentally, the house is one of two remaining in Princeton designed by architect Brown. The other is diagonally across from the YM-YWCA. Mr. Brown also designed Whig and Clio halls on the Princeton University campus.

The new townhouses that will embrace the old McCosh-Bush house will get under way shortly. Design Interface hopes to have complete foundation plans by October.

Former Princetonian, Now Free-Lance Photographer in Paris, Returns 'Home' to Do Story on Jewish Community in Princeton

She has an exquisite house and garden 20 minutes from Paris in Gif-sur-Yvette and hasn't lived in Princeton for 12 years, but she still keeps her small house at 40 Linden Lane and her daughter, now a medical student in Paris, wears "PRINCETON" tee-shirts, and she thinks of Princeton warmly as "home."

Kathleen Blumenfeld is a successful free-lance photographer for such publications as Paris-Match, Vogue France, Vogue Germany, Paris-Metro, the women's magazine "F," Marie France. The Princeton families whose toddlers she photographed in the '50s and '60s now have grand-toddlers, and although her Princeton stay is only from August 7 to September 17, she has found time to snap a shutter for friends old and new. Catch her, if you can, at 921-0962.

Mrs. Blumenfeld is in the United States on assignment from Paris-Match to photograph President Carter and Senator Edward Kennedy. So far, she doesn't have an appointment with either, but she doesn't seem perturbed.

She has another, more local assignment. "When I knew I was coming back to Princeton," she says in quick, animated speech that reflects both her Parisian birth and her British mother, "I went to 'L'Arche,' the Jewish magazine — very high-brow and literary. It means 'The Ark,' you know, in French.

"...and I said to them 'I'd like to do something for you in America,' and they said, well, why not do the Jewish community in Princeton?"

A Picture Story. For her photographic essay, Mrs. Blumenfeld has talked with members of the Jewish Center and has interviewed Hazel Stix on the subject of the broad reach of support for Jewish charities that exists in Princeton.

At Princeton University, she has explored the kosher dining hall, and has learned that the University offers classes in Hellenistic and Medieval Judaism and the literature of Israel. Gertrude Dubrovsky has told her about the classes she teaches in Hebrew and Yiddish, often attended by Catholic and Protestant, as well as Jewish, students.

Rabbi Eddy Feld, who guides the Hillel membership, has invited her to a bagels and lox breakfast on September 16. "Bring your camera...."

She has also done camera portraits of Dean of the Faculty Aaron Lemonick.

A Fashion Story, Too. "And you know, I'm doing a fashion story for the magazine 'Marie France' — photographing, in candid photography you know, women on the streets of Boston, on Fifth Avenue and in Princeton.

"And I saw the most beautiful, six-foot-tall girl here in Princeton! She was walking with her uncle or grandfather, I don't know which, and I took her picture. She had 'Rimbaud,' the French poet, on her tee-shirt!"

"Well, I knew she was special because for five years, I was model editor at Vogue, in New York. I scribbled down her address and stuffed it into my bag and forgot it.

"Then I happened to be talking to friends at Vogue and they said, 'Oh, how we need new faces!' and I told them of this beautiful girl — but I cannot find her address!"

Pass the Word. She had said she was leaving Princeton shortly to go to Florida, Mrs. Blumenfeld remembers.

"And if her relative, this charming and aloof man who was with her, would read about this in the newspaper and tell her! Vogue would really like to see her."

Kathleen Blumenfeld moved away from Princeton in 1967 because her physicist husband, Dr. Henry Blumenfeld, left Forrestal for a position in Geneva. Paris came four years later, and his wife says Dr. Blumenfeld now has wistful hopes of returning to the states.

Having been in the United States last year for Paris Match, to photograph Henry Kissinger, Mrs. Blumenfeld has decided to make a book of the famous personalities she has photographed. One of them, by the way, is the pianist Gaby Casadesus. Early on in Princeton, the Blumenfelds rented the home of Gaby's father, the renowned pianist Robert Casadesus, on the Lawrenceville Road.

A Book of the Best. She has already published, in Switzerland, a book of the 100 best photographs of her father-in-law, the fashion photographer Edwin Blumenfeld, "from whom I learned photography by osmosis!"

Her camera is the Rolleiflex. She takes black and white and color, and does all her own black and white processing in the "laboratory" of her house in Gif-sur-Yvette.

"I have carried my darkroom to two houses in Switzerland, two houses in Paris....I spend more time in the dark-room than anywhere else."

Still French as can be, despite her U.S. citizenship, she is startled that Americans seem reluctant to shake hands. She is startled, too, by the current French fashion for giving four kisses upon greeting. When she was a little girl, it was only two: one on each cheek."

"Today — I kiss twice and retreat!"

—Katharine H. Bretnall

3 HOMES RANSACKED

In Township. Three homes — all unoccupied at the time — were entered last week in the Township and ransacked.

A ladder was used to enter the second floor bathroom window of a Stockton Street home where drawers in all the bedrooms were rifled. The entry was reported Saturday afternoon.

An unlocked, second-floor bedroom window was the means of access to a Russell Road home where the entry was reported Saturday morning.

LET'S HAVE ANOTHER CUP OF COFFEE: Without the crew that does k.p., members of the Senior Citizens' Club might go hungry and thirsty. At Friday's end-of-summer "clambake" (well, hamburgers and hot dogs), these members were in the kitchen (left to right): Mamie Del Vecchio, Sarah Forsyth, Connie Belloni and Jean Guerzini. Club president Walter (Moose) Coan is standing, rear.

To enter a Hun Road home, a thief broke a pane of glass in a rear door. Police found candles removed from a dining room candelabra, and drawers open in every bedroom. In each instance, police do not know yet what is missing. Ptl. James Vandemark investigated all three break-ins.

A Quaker Road home was entered between 8 Thursday evening and 4 Friday afternoon by an intruder who removed a glass from the rear door to allow him to reach in and unlock it. The kitchen and three bedrooms were ransacked, police said.

Stolen were three gold bracelets, a gold fraternity ring, and two gold medals. Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated.

A sneak thief visited a Mercer Road home between 11 Friday night and 11 the next morning.

The victim told police she had placed her tan canvas purse on a kitchen counter. She discovered it missing the next day — four hours after the kitchen door had been unlocked. Inside the bag were her wallet, check book and credit cards. Total loss was $20.

Sweaters Stolen. Twenty-nine sweaters valued at $259.34 were reported stolen Thursday from Sweater Agency Sales located in the ROTC Building off Washington Road.

A Student employee from Spelman Hall told police he had last seen the sweaters June 1 before he left school. There were no signs of forced entry into the building, police said, and the door leading to the sweaters had been locked when the theft was discovered.

In the Borough, a room in Witherspoon Hall on the University campus was entered last week. The occupant, police report, has since returned to her home in Holland.

Taken were American Express checks worth $200, 200 Guilders (approximately $100), a silver necklace and a gold necklace with a pearl pendant. The room was entered through an unlocked door.

Jewelry and change were stolen from a Nassau Street home which was entered between 6 and 9:50 Sunday night. The thief first cut a side screen door to enter the door behind it which was unlocked.

Taken were a $100 gold pocket watch with a gold chain, a $50 silver watch, a black leather change purse containing $3.50 and three disposable lighters valued at 49 cents each.

THIEVES TURN TO CARS

For Spare Parts. For a thief, a needed spare part is only as far away as the nearest parked car.

A Spruce Circle resident told police last week that her starter, valued at about $50, had been unbolted and stolen from her 1966 car, while it was parked in front of her house.

While the car of a Jamesburg resident was parked Thursday at Merwick, a thief removed its $40 battery, and an East Windsor resident listed the theft of wheel covers from his 1977 car, while it was parked Friday evening from 8 to 10:30 in the Park Place lot.

In the fifteen minutes the car of a Plainsboro resident was parked Saturday in the circular drive in front of McCarter Theatre, someone opened an unlocked door and removed a turntable valued at $250.

While a Princeton resident was swimming at Community Park pool last week, someone stole her wine-colored shoulder bag from the front seat of her car. It contained $60 in American Express travelers checks and personal items. Total loss: $100.

The victim had her wallet in her possession. She told police that her car was locked but the windows had been lowered about 1 1/2 inches because of the heat. There were no signs of forced entry.

Another Week, Another Moped. Bicycles and mopeds continue to be stolen in Princeton at a steady rate.

A $650 moped, chained to the rear of an Evelyn place house, was taken Sunday between 12:30 and 11:30 p.m.

A Lafayette Road West resident reported on Thursday the theft of a man's 10-speed bicycle valued at $250 from an unlocked garage, and a $25, three-speed girl's bicycle was taken Monday between noon and 4 p.m. from behind University Press, 41 William Street. The victim is a S. Harrison Street resident.

John Lyden, manager of the Phillips 66 Service Station on Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road, reported the theft last week of an AM-FM cassette radio from atop a cigarette machine. It is valued at $100.

LOITERING

To Discuss Possible Ordinance. Changes may be made in the Township's proposed loitering ordinance as it goes back on the agenda for continued public hearing this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

Committee will introduce a bond ordinance, probably around $110,000, related to realigning the approaches to Mercer Road bridge. About $102,400 is for construction, the remainder for acquiring easements from two property-owners, and paying legal fees. The bridge is scheduled to be opened to traffic this Thursday at 9 a.m. It has been closed for extensive repairs since May, 1978.

Committee must decide whether it wants to make a new application for Green Acres money to finance Turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Street. The original application was filed about two years ago, but Green Acres officials told the Township that projects in the works -- the Mercer Road bike path and the Community Park amphitheatre -- had to be completed before a new application for the municipality could be considered.

Those two projects have now been finished; in the meantime, state regulations have changed. So, probably, have costs. Committee must decide, therefore, whether to begin again.

An ordinance will be introduced concerning litter on commercial property. The problem has been in the area of the Somerset Farms store on State Road, although business firms in the block of buildings are said to be more responsible for the litter than Somerset Farms or its customers.

170TH YEAR TO BEGIN

For Lawrenceville School. The Lawrenceville School formally will open its 170th year Sunday, at Convocation ceremonies at the Edith Memorial Chapel, when Head Master Bruce McClellan will address students and faculty. The School is at full enrollment with 715 boys from 40 states and 24 foreign countries. Included in this figure are 200 day students: 55 from Princeton and 54 from Lawrenceville.

PRINCETONIAN HONORED

By Greek Fraternity. Trenton Chapter 72 and the Fifth District of the Order of American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association will honor Mrs. Doreen Spitzer of Princeton with their "Outstanding Philhellene Award" for New Jersey. The award will be presented at a testimonial dinner to be held on Friday evening, September 7, at the St. George Greek Orthodox Church Community Center on 1200 Klockner Road in Trenton.

Mrs. Spitzer, wife of Princeton astro-physicist Lyndon Spitzer, is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, and the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece. For the past 25 years she has served on the Ahepa Scholarship Awards Committee, and during World War II, she worked on the Greek War Relief Committee. Recently, she was elected to the Board of Trustees of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece. Since 1947, she has opened her home on 659 Lake Drive to Philhellenes to celebrate Greek Independence Day of 1821.

PARK HERE: Swings and checkers, a bench for rest and a sandbox for play — all will be incorporated into Quarry Park, outlined by a dotted line in this sketch. Borough officials say they hope to install equipment this fall.

Work will begin "right away" on Quarry Park, promises Borough engineer George Olexa, as soon as the $33,000 bond ordinance introduced last week passes its public hearing next Tuesday, and is given final Council approval. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The remaining $32,500 in the $65,500 budget is a state Green Acres grant.

The park will be for passive recreation only — no ball-fields. For the very young, there will be a sandbox, something you ride on called a "whirl," which does just that when somebody pushes it around; an activity center for climbing; "Saddle Mates" (horses to bounce up and down on), and a pre-school-size swing.

Older siblings will get a platform climber incorporating such sophistications as a balance beam, pole, arch and chain, and there will be swings, too, only bigger.

For the other end of the age scale, Quarry Park will provide park benches, picnic tables, grills, and those outdoor game tables that have checkerboards built into them.

Low Bid Wins by $10,000. Three contractors have submitted bids. Mr. Olexa will recommend that Council accept that of Herman Panacek of Ringoes, who came in with $112,686. Castoro and Company asked $122,902. A third bidder, Mercer contracting, only bid on the so-called base bid, with $41,075. Mr. Olexa's base bid estimate was $24,080.

Panacek's base bid is $40,315. Mr. Olexa will recommend adding to that the construction of Spruce Circle — a cul de sac in from Spruce Street — for $14,351; plumbing at $3,908 and fences for $3,790 for a total of $62,436.

This leaves $2,954. Mr. Olexa will suggest the money be used for equipment, rather than for planting or lights. The Borough has a preliminary agreement with the state to pay half — $1,477 — provided it is used only for the purchase of equipment, and is installed by the Borough's own crew. Mr. Olexa plans to buy equipment through the state's own supplier, Dominick Recreation, thereby getting a lower price.

If there isn't enough money to go around, the engineer would give top priority to pre-school equipment and park benches, leaving the rest for the park. Mr. Olexa says they have not yet made any overtures. He once proposed to them that they use their money to buy a sign.

Know Anyone Who Can't Speak English?

If you know someone who doesn't know English and would like to learn, the Princeton Adult School suggests you recommend a ten-week course in "English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL)" which will be offered by the school from September 27 to December 6 at Princeton High School. Classes will be held from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Thursdays.

Teachers will emphasize conversation and practical grammar, and will assign some reading and writing. All non-English-speaking students, from beginners to those with more advanced skills, are invited to register.

The course fee is $25, plus a small amount for textbooks, and limited scholarship help is available. Teachers will be Barbara Greenfeldt, Elinor LeBaron, Katherine Miller and Libby Shanefield. Inquiries may be made by calling 921-7093, 924-6579, 924-9450 or 921-0085.

In-person registration is required, and students will be placed in classes according to their level of English, after a brief interview. Registration will be Thursday, September 13 at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Princeton High School, off Walnut Lane. Those who have been in the ESOL program before must register again. Class space is limited, and the Adult School suggests an early appearance on the night of registration.

FLOWER SHOW PLANNED

By Two Garden Clubs. A Community Flower Show, the first in Princeton in 30 years, will be held Saturday, September 29, in the parish hall of Trinity Church. Admission is free, and there are no entry fees. Sponsored by the Stony Brook Garden Club and the Garden Club of Princeton, the show will have two parts, flower arrangements and horticulture. The titles of the two flower arrangement classes open to the general public and the rules for entering are on page 19. It should be noted that entries for "Far Out," the class for juniors, are limited to six entries in each age group, and a number of entries have already been received.

All those planning to enter an arrangement are required to contact the appropriate registrar, Mrs. Francis H. Dyckman Jr. or Mrs. Samuel Lambert III before September 20. Rounding out the displays in the flower arrangement section will be four other competitions open to experienced members of area garden clubs. They include interpretations of "Hurricane Season," an arrangement for a country church, table settings for a football weekend party, and a mixed fruit and vegetable arrangement.

The schedule for the numerous horticulture exhibits will be published in a forthcoming edition of TOWN TOPICS. All horticulture classes are open to the public and include a number of annuals, perennials, shrubs and a section for tuberous plants. Complete schedules for the show are available at the reference desk of the Princeton Public Library.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two Princeton residents were arrested last week in separate incidents and charged by police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

John S. Necedo, 18, of 41 Reading Circle, was stopped Sunday night on Route 206, after he was observed by Ptl. Mario Musso driving with a faulty taillight and license plate light. During questioning, Ptl. Musso noticed a cellophane bag containing a brownish substance which was identified as marijuana.

Thomas A. Parker, 27, 27 Leigh Avenue, was arrested around midnight Friday in Marquand Park by Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Monica Sheehan, who charged him with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana. Ptl. Sutton signed the complaint.

Both Necedo and Parker were later released, pending their appearance in court.

Two 20-year-old Newark residents, Cornelius N. King and Gilbert W. Marrow were arrested Saturday afternoon in the Stanworth area and charged with soliciting without a permit.

Police said they were trying to sell phonograph records and tapes for Fine Arts, Inc., a Newark firm. They are scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday.

Gas Theft. A 17-year-old Borough juvenile has been charged with larceny of gasoline after he was apprehended early Sunday morning in the Park Place lot.

Ptl. William Clark and Ptl. Sutton noticed the youth standing between two parked cars. The gas caps from both had been removed and police found a piece of garden hose lying on the ground. As the two officers were apprehending the juvenile, a second person fled the scene. In checking, the officers found two other cars in the lot with their gas caps removed.

OPENINGS AVAILABLE

At ETS Nursery School. An open house for parents interested in enrolling their children in a nursery school program operated by the Educational Testing Service (ETS) Child Care Research Center will be held Tuesday from 2-4 and 7-9 at the Eldridge Park School, Lawn Park Avenue, Lawrence Township.

Parents will have the opportunity to meet the teachers and view the Eldridge Park School facilities where the nursery school program will be conducted this fall.

Openings still remain for the September class. Children who were at least 3½ years old by September 1 are eligible.

Warning for Bridge Users

With the scheduled re-opening Thursday of Stony Brook Bridge on Mercer road, Chief Frederick Porter of the township advises all motorists to proceed with caution.

Deer and small game have had free reign there for so long that police are concerned over what may happen when traffic resumes, especially during the first few days. "The animals and deer have had a playground there," commented Chief Porter. He added there are numerous deer in the area.

36 years before her retirement in 1960. For a short period after she retired she worked for Educational Testing Service.

A charter member of the Wilson Club of Trenton, now known as the Trenton-Princeton Club, Miss Tomlinson was active in Wilson's Alumnae Association. She was a class chairman of the development fund and a class agent for the annual giving campaign.

Wilson, a 110-year-old women's liberal arts college, was scheduled to close at the end of June. In May, a Franklin County (Pa.) judge reversed the trustees' decision to close the institution, with several Princeton area residents active toward this development. The college, with a new administration and many new trustees, has reorganized and is recruiting students for a September opening and is seeking financial support from state, federal, corporate and foundation sources.

WORKSHOPS LISTED

By Family Service. This fall a new program will be offered by the Family Service Agency. It is entitled "Energize," and will be led by Kay Boals.

This group is designed to help those who have a personal energy crisis learn techniques to add zest and vitality to their life and relationships by channeling their energy flow. An eight week series, this group will be offered on Thursday evenings beginning September 27 and Friday mornings beginning September 28. The fee is $50.

Several one day workshops will be offered:

- Workshop for parents of teens. This daylong discussion will use structured exercises in sharing to help parents develop a working relationship with their teenagers. Led by Sheila Morgan, gestalt therapist, this workshop will be given on October 27 from 9:30 - 3:30 and the fee will be $20.

- "Celebrating Me," a workshop focusing on appreciating oneself and what one does that will be offered on Saturday, November 10.

- Roots, a workshop to explore one's relationship with one's parents. It will be offered on December 1, from 10 to 3.

Both of these last two workshops will be led by Kay Boals, and the fee will be $15. All programs will be at the offices of the Family Service Agency of Princeton, 120 John Street. Family Service is a member agency of the United Way - Princeton Area Communities, and scholarships are available for all programs.

For information and registration call Alta Shimko, 924-2119.

CHILD CARE OFFERED

By YMCA. There are now three pre-school child care programs to choose from at the YMCA. All can be coordinated with the gym and swim program also available for the pre-school child.

The morning Creative Child Care program is for boys and girls 2½ to 4. The program meets Monday through Friday 9 to 11:30 and children can register to come from one to five days a week. The season begins September 24 and ends in June.

The program has been designed for the entertainment, education and enjoyment of the 2½ to 4 year old. It centers around stories, games, music, creative dramatics, field trips, toys and more.

Space is limited to maintain a quality experience for each child. Two experienced adults will be the leaders, Lydia Angle, head instructor and Kate Deiss, her assistant.

The two afternoon programs are Creative Child Care for boys and girls 4 to 6 years and Toddler Fun Club for boys and girls 2½ to 4 years. These programs meet Monday through Friday 11:45 to 3:45 and children may register to attend from one to five days a week.

Space in all three programs is limited and registrations are currently being accepted. They may be made at the YMCA, Paul Robeson Place, or by calling 924-4852.

Police Discretion Supported.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Are Princetonians aware that Township Committee is considering a revision of the loitering law at the request of Township Police?

The police have become increasingly concerned that when called about disturbances created by young people at the Dairy Queen in Princeton Shopping Center, and other places, they are powerless to ask the group to disperse. Only if they can pinpoint the offending individual(s) can they do anything as the law stands. This is difficult if not impossible.

The revised law would permit the police to disperse the group under described conditions which involve the use of discretion.

There is clearly a question of civil rights here, but we suggest there is a further problem of the rights of citizens not to be harassed or threatened or unduly disturbed by noise and littering.

In this the proclaimed "Year of the Child," much is said of rights, nothing of the responsibilities of the child. Are we raising generations of Americans whose preoccupation with rights preclude any attention to responsibility toward others. And should our young people be allowed to believe by default that any kind of loud, thoughtless, rude, destructive behavior will be tolerated in the name of civil rights?

We believe our Township Police are competent to use discretion. They want to do their job keeping law and order and, in our opinion, fully deserve the whole-hearted support of a grateful community.

ANNE AND
GEORGE ADRIANCE

Consolidate the County.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

To date, those who would terminate the existence of two independent municipalities and create a new larger one have not put forth compelling arguments for their position. If the fact that both the Borough and the Township share the name Princeton is a reason for consolidating, then why not merge our two municipalities with Princeton Junction, Princeton Meadows, Princeton Ivy East, Princeton Manor, etc.? If larger units of government are more desirable, why not consolidate all of Mercer county into a single municipality?

The fact is that, as a general rule, larger government is costlier, less efficient, and slower to react to citizens' needs. In a Princeton of double size, the political process would be adversely affected. Door to door cam-paiging would be all but precluded with a population approaching thirty thousand, thus necessitating greater reliance on costly media advertising. The time burden on council members would be multiplied making service to the public on a municipal level feasible only for the retired or independently wealthy, otherwise, salaries commensurate with time input would have to be paid to council members.

Under consolidation, the distance between the citizen and the municipal agency head or decision maker would be multiplied by two. For example, a single municipal engineer would head a department of double size with double responsibility.

The demands on that engineer's time would be increased and his effectiveness impaired. It would be harder for an individual citizen to get to the department head and get action.

For Borough and Township citizens alike, increasing the size of government will adversely affect services and in the long run result in higher taxes as larger bureaucracies are invariably more expensive. Furthermore, the sense of belonging to a neighborhood and identification with community are always decreased in larger municipal units. As the population grows, as it inevitably will, a larger and ever less cohesive community will be the result. Princeton Borough is not a densely-populated community.

If, in the long run, a consolidated Princeton achieved a population density equivalent to that of the Borough now, the total population of the municipality would exceed 86,000 and be larger than Trenton. This is not unrealistic for the distant future, in view of developers' demands for Princeton real estate. And we must consider the future because consolidation is effectively irreversible.

For the Borough, consolidation would be a disaster. Police protection and road maintenance per square mile would be greatly reduced. The central business district of the Borough which generates $244,000 in parking meter revenues and $216,000 in fines would lose control over these funds. Borough taxpayers would have to participate in paying for the construction of infrastructure such as roads and sewers in the burgeoning Township.

If independent municipalities are continued, the Borough's share of the school budget can be expected to decline. Since this important item of cost is shared on the basis of ratables, as new development is of necessity concentrated in the Township, the percentage of the school budget borne by the Township, not by the Borough, increases.

The proponents of consolidation hear a heavy burden of proving their case. This is not only because the present two independent municipalities function well in delivering services efficiently, at a modest cost, but because the creation of a larger unit of government runs contrary to the general trend of trying to bring government closer to the people by means of decentralization.

approach to the greater Princeton community.

I offered my services only as a distributor of their brochures and flyers. They -- and I -- felt that Witherspoon area (Election) District Six residents should have the opportunity to read, and see, the advantages or disadvantages before making a decision for consolidation or not.

An Editor's Note

Because TOWN TOPICS' Mailbox, frequently well filled with a variety of Letters to the Editor, has already begun to receive opinions on the November referendum on consolidation of Princeton's two municipalities, the following points are offered as guidelines to correspondents.

No letters in excess of 500 words (a maximum TOWN TOPICS has set since it began publication more than three decades ago) will be published in their entirety. They will be edited for condensation if the writer's intent can be maintained, otherwise, they may be omitted entirely.

If more letters than can be accommodated in a single issue are received, preference will be given to those of 300 words or less, and as many of them as possible will be printed in full. They should be typewritten, if possible, and double spaced. All letters must include the writer's name and address for publication. Letters received after Monday will be held for use the following week.

OBITUARIES

Kazuko Higuchi, 74, a former member of the Princeton University staff, died in Honolulu on August 28 following a long illness. Miss Higuchi was the director of slides and photographs in the university's Department of Art and Archaeology when she retired in 1970 following a 15-year tenure.

Born in Honolulu in 1904, she was the daughter of a Japanese Samurai who was converted to Christianity, moved to Hawaii and joined the Protestant ministry. Eventually he became pastor of the largest Protestant church in the Hawaiian Islands.

Miss Higuchi, who was a U.S. citizen, majored in sociology at Oberlin College where she received the A.B. degree in 1928. She stayed on at Oberlin, however, majoring in art history in 1928-29 and in art from 1929 to 1931. From 1932 to 1937, she studied art in Japan and for one year was acting curator of Oriental art at the Honolulu Museum.

She returned to Japan, where she was studying and working on the eve of the United States' entry into World War II. Late in 1941, Miss Higuchi was urged by friends to leave the country. She boarded a freighter for Hawaii which was to be the last commercial ship to sail from Nagasaki before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Upon her arrival, she was able to alert Naval Intelligence authorities in Honolulu concerning probable subversive activities in Hawaii; her information led to the arrest of a German couple on charges of espionage.

Miss Higuchi, a devoted American citizen, began wartime service for her country by working for Naval Air Intelligence in Honolulu. She was subsequently transferred to Portland, Oregon, where she monitored Japanese broadcasts for Navy counterintelligence, providing simultaneous translations, and was also an on-the-air broadcaster for the government. She was eventually brought to Washington as an intelligence analyst, and among her notable achievements in that position was the preparation of a report which calculated probable casualties if American forces were to attempt an invasion of the home islands of Japan.

After refreshing her knowledge of art for a year at Bryn Mawr College following the war, Miss Higuchi was the curator of slides and photographs at Wheaton College for seven years and was assistant curator of slides and photographs at the Philadelphia Museum from 1953 to 1955, when she joined Princeton University.

During her years at the university, she is credited with building the collection of slides and photographs in the Department of Art and Archaeology into one of the nation's most distinguished. She is also fondly remembered at Princeton for her "green thumb" and for her success in creating the garden on the roof of the Art Museum, McCormick Hall. As a hobby, she counseled scores of Princeton undergraduates concerning their future professional careers.

Upon her retirement from Princeton, Miss Higuchi moved to a village near Dublin, Ireland, and for some years she served as a volunteer to build up the slide and photograph collection of the Art Department at Trinity College, Dublin. When she became ill, the wife of a Trinity faculty member escorted her to the United States. After a brief medical stay in Philadelphia, she returned to her native Hawaii last spring.

Miss Higuchi is survived by her two brothers, the Rev. Hiro Higuchi of Hawaii and Sam Higuchi, a Honolulu businessman.

SISTERS TO TEACH

At St. Ann's School. When St. Ann's School in Lawrenceville opens this Wednesday, the more than 400 pupils will be greeted by religious sisters for the first time in nearly five years.

For the past four years, St. Ann's has been staffed by 16 lay teachers and a priest-principal. With the start of this school year, however, four members of the Congregation of the Sisters of the Resurrection will join the lay staff in welcoming the kindergarten-through-eighth-graders.

Sister Christine Marie, C.R., is principal and Sister Mary Daniel, C.R., superior, and with them on the faculty are Sister Elizabeth Ann, C.R. and Sister Marie, C.R. Commenting on the arrival in the parish of teaching sisters once more, Msgr. Thomas J. Frain, pastor, said, "After nearly five years of prayerful searching and correspondance, we welcome the sisters with great joy and eagerly anticipate the added spiritual dimension they will bring to our community." St. Ann's School opened in September, 1964 with first and second grades. Sister Mary Agnes C.S.J. (Congregation of St. Joseph of Peace) was the first principal. One new grade was added each year until all eight grades were accommodated. St. Ann's Convent was built in 1965 and was occupied by the Sisters of St. Joseph until 1974. Since then, it has been virtually vacant.

OLDER THAN THE UNITED STATES

This colonial farmhouse is alive with warmth and atmosphere. The original section has been traced back to at least 1738, and was part of a large section of land granted by the King of England. To this day, the property is still known as King's Grant Farm.

As you enter into the home through the main hallway, the lovely panelled billard room, with built-in bookcases, and family room with huge walk-in fireplace are to your right. To your left is the large living room with fireplace, perfect for entertaining. Beyond this is the dining room, also with a fireplace, that could easily seat a dinner party for 30. The huge country kitchen offers lots of cabinet space, and has been completely modernized. The 6 bedrooms and additional 3 baths on the second floor can be easily reached by any of 3 staircases.

The grounds included a greenhouse, 3 story barn with separate workshop, 2 storage buildings, pump house and a 20 x 40 inground pool. This exceptional property is presently under farm assessment and is available for purchase with either 94 or 53 acres. Please call for additional details and appointments.

What's Happening at Plasma Physics Lab? Terrible Things, According to 'Mother Jones'

Scientists at Princeton's Plasma Physics Laboratory, who have basked in the light of fairly favorable publicity in recent months, found themselves the object of a harsh — and they claim shrill — expose in the current issue of Mother Jones magazine, a journal of investigative reporting.

The Plasma Physics Lab, located at the University's Forrestal Campus on Route 1, is the site of a $400 million Federal research program to establish a workable prototype for a fusion nuclear reactor. Scientists there hope that their reactor model will demonstrate the economic feasibility of pure fusion as a source of electrical power.

According to its proponents, fusion energy would involve virtually none of the dangers posed by modern fission nuclear plants, such as the one at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania. "Fusion releases no chemical pollutants to the atmosphere since there are no combustion products. There are also no 'ashes,' except helium, a harmless and useful gas," states one Department of Energy publication, quoted in Mother Jones. "There is no inventory of weapons-related uranium or plutonium materials associated with fusion; hence, there is no risk of diversion."

Not so fast, charges Mother Jones, in an article written by Amanda Spake in its September-October issue. "Pure fusion, while ostensibly cleaner, is likely to be an extremely complicated and even more cumbersome technology than fission ... No one yet knows of a safe, workable way to capture the energy generated in the fusion reaction."

Even worse, continues the article in Mother Jones, the publication which first charged Ford Motor Company with designing a potentially hazardous gas tank for the Department of Energy officials tell us this $500 million-a-year government program is developing safe, clean energy. Instead, scientists have quietly turned it into a subsidy for nuclear fission power. What the public doesn't know yet is that this new, secretive program could extend the lifetime of Three Mile Island-type plants indefinitely.

Introductory paragraph for article on Plasma Physics Laboratory in "Mother Jones" magazine warns public is being duped about research in progress there.

Ford Pinto, the fusion reactor "will first be used not as an alternative to nuclear fission power, but as a way of extending its use ... Industry and government scientists are designing power plants that would marry fusion and radioactive fission into a new type of reactor called the 'fusion-fission hybrid.' The hybrid reactor would be primarily a breeder of nuclear fuel."

Hybrids 'More Dangerous.' The hybrid reactors, the magazine charged, would prolong the life of fission plants, which now rely on dwindling supplies of usable uranium. The hybrids also would increase the efficiency of the fusion reactors currently being developed. The hybrid would also be far more dangerous to operate than either the fission or fusion plants now in operation or under development, the article charges.

The Plasma Physics Laboratory has made no formal response to the magazine's charges. A spokesperson, Caroline Yakimo, said that many of the charges were based on early studies of fusion plant designs.

"Certainly some people in the program have looked at the feasibility of hybrids, and probably will continue to do so," Mrs. Yakimo said. "But it is a sideline. Our main thrust has been and will be the development of a fusion power plant. That's our goal, it is stated in our policy, and reflected in the budgetary emphasis of the program."

In a sidebar describing the inner workings of a tokamak reactor, the type being developed at the Plasma Physics Lab, Mother Jones reports that "perhaps the most frightening part of the whole thing involves the plan to extract heat from the reactor. The walls of the tokamak will be cooled with molten lithium, a caustic and highly toxic metal. Bombarded by neutrons, some of the lithium will turn into radioactive tritium, about a million times the amount of radioactive gas that was vented at Three Mile Island.

Raining Lye? "The lithium will in turn transfer its heat to molten sodium — about 15,000 tons of it. You may remember from high school that sodium in the presence of water burns explosively to make lye. We begin to have a scenario here: a water pipe breaks and ignition follows, resulting in a vast fire of sodium and lithium. A lithium fire is virtually impossible to extinguish. Downwind it could conceivably rain radioactive lye for hundreds of miles."

"If this fusion power plant had been a hybrid reactor, the hypothetical disaster would be worse. The fire would spew the radioactive plutonium or uranium inside the hybrid all over the countryside."

"The China Syndrome" and Three Mile Island notwithstanding, Mrs. Yakimo insists that this scenario is not even close to reality.

The fact is that we have not decided to use molten lithium. It has been looked at, but at this point the solid lithium oxide seems to be a better choice. The solid form is far safer," she says.

'No Secrets.' The original claims for fusion's safety are still valid, the spokesperson maintains. "Our effluent is helium, which is not radioactive. What would become radioactive is the reactor vacuum vessel. But that's not a big problem because the half life is so short. The radioactivity in a fusion plant would immediately be 10 times less than that produced by a fission plant. After 100 years it becomes 10,000 times less."

The article was written in the now classic investigatory style, with the reporter tracing her path from the bus station on Nassau Street to the lab — described as if it were a center of top-secret military research.

In fact, the lab's work is not secret, and its results are shared with scientists from other countries, including the Soviet Union. "What bothers me most about the article is the implication that this is all some great secret," says Mrs. Yakimo. "It isn't. We take the public around on tours an average of once a week."

News Of The THEATRES

MCCARTER READY
With New Season. Six plays by five playwrights and that old favorite, "To Be Announced," will constitute the 1979-80 season for McCarter Theatre. For subscription details, see page 3B.
The season will start October 2, with the east coast premiere of "The Visions of Simone Machard," by Bertolt Brecht and Lion Feuchtwanger. It will run through October 21.

McCarter says the play leaps back and forth in time from the France of Joan of Arc to the France of World War II. There is a young girl who sees visions, in the manner of St. Joan herself.
Following this premiere, McCarter will present Tad Mosel's "All the Way Home," an American play described as "heart-rending and warmly humorous." McCarter has blocked it in for October 30 through November 18.

The brilliance of Tom Stoppard's wit in "Jumpers" will be a prelude to the holiday season. This is the Stoppard play described by Kenneth Tynan, in his New Yorker profile of the playwright, as Stoppard's "masterpiece." Production dates are November 27 through December 16.
The new year will begin with Moliere's comedy of the battle between a father and his children, "The Miser." It will open January 22 and will play through February 10.

In March, comes the American play "to be announced." This slot is deliberately left open, says the theatre's director, Nagel Jackson, to be sure there is room for that just-right play that comes along two days before deadline. Whatever it may be, it's scheduled for March 4 through 23.

And the season will end with Noel Coward's comedy, "Hay Fever," to be presented April 1-20.

ACT TWO
Second Semester, at Playhouse. Two weeks of classic films in revival will launch the second phase of the Princeton Playhouse's six-month trial run to see whether Princeton citizens really want a movie theatre in addition to The Garden.
There will be four screwball comedies from the 1930's and '40's (September 6-12), and a week of four Humphrey Bogart classics from the 1940's (September 13-19).
All programs will be double features. The regular Playhouse admission of $2.50 will be charged.

"Adam's Rib" and "The Philadelphia Story," a pair of Katharine Hepburn comedies — will start things off with a three-day run from this Thursday through Saturday.
"Adam's Rib," made with Spencer Tracy, is about husband and wife lawyers on opposite sides in a trial for attempted murder. Judy Holliday — a newcomer at the time — plays the accused. Tom Ewell and David Wayne made their screen debuts in this film. Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin were the writers and George Cukor the director.
"The Philadelphia Story," made in 1940, is an adaptation of Philip Barry's play about a spoiled society girl who yearns for down-to-earth romance. Cary Grant plays her ex-husband and James Stewart a reporter who falls in love with her, with Cukor again the director. The story was remade in 1956 as the Cole Porter musical, "High Society."

THE VISIONS OF SIMONE MACHARD	ALL THE WAY HOME	JUMPERS	THE MISER	A NEW AMERICAN PLAY	HAY FEVER
Bertolt Brecht and Lion Feuchtwanger	Tad Mosel	Tom Stoppard	Molière	to be announced	Noel Coward
An East Coast premiere of a work by the German master. This fascinating play jumps about in time from the France of Joan of Arc to the France of World War II. In both worlds, a young girl has visions.	This beautiful American play is at once heart-rending and warmly humorous in its candid depiction of the ultimate sadness in a young family's life. This play is being "rediscovered" by theaters throughout the country.	One would be hard put to find a more dazzling display of wit and stage technique in the modern British theater. In his recent profile of Stoppard for The New Yorker , Kenneth Tynan called this play Stoppard's masterpiece.	Simply a very, very funny play by the master of comedy himself. Every situation comedy steals something from this classic confrontation of father vs. children. Nagle Jackson chose this play to run in January and early February when we all need cheering up.	It always sounds like hedging to designate a play To Be Announced. The practical reason for this, however, is to leave a slot open for the exciting script that magically appears two days before the season opens. McCarter will announce this selection as soon as possible.	Nagle Jackson's production of this play in San Francisco this year was the hit of their season. When the National Theatre of Britain elected to do a play by Coward, this is the one they chose. So next spring you may expect Hay Fever .

"It Happened One Night" and "His Girl Friday" will constitute the second half of the first Playhouse revival week, playing from this Sunday through next Wednesday, September 12.

"It Happened One Night" stars Clark Gable as a reporter who falls in love with a runaway heiress, played by Claudette Colbert. Both won Academy awards in 1934 for their portrayals, as did Frank Capra for his direction and the picture itself.

"His Girl Friday," written by Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur, is a 1940's remake of "The Front Page" with the role of the star reporter changed to a female. Rosalind Russell plays the part, opposite Cary Grant as the conniving editor. Ralph Bellamy plays the rube she is trying to find time to marry while she covers a sizzling murder.

During the September 6-12 week, The Playhouse will show again the 1937 Movietone newsreel shown in June when the Playhouse re-opened. It features the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge and the 1937 Davis Cup tennis matches.

"Casablanca," "The Maltese Falcon," "The Big Sleep" and "Treasure of Sierra Madre," are the Bogart classics chosen for the week of September 13-19.

variety of creative arts experiences, leading to the use of art media to express their own ideas. Four year olds meet Tuesdays, 2:45 to 3:45 p.m., kindergarten on Wednesday from 2:45 to 3:45 p.m., and grade 1 Wednesday from 4 to 5 p.m. Classes are $55 for the ten-week term.

Idea workshops begin with creative exercises to spark original ideas and are structured to fit into a theatrical framework. Grades 2-3 meet Tuesday from 4 to 5:30 p.m.; grades 4-5 on Monday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. An advanced idea workshop for students who have had one year of classes at CTU will be held Thursday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. All these classes are $70 per term.

Grades 6 to 8 may choose from three classes: acting workshop, in which students are exposed to acting techniques, mime, a beginning course taught by a professional mime, and the theatre workshop, a year-long study of the origins of improvisational theatre, through development and performance of two plays. A prerequisite for the Theatre Workshop only is one year of CTU classes or consent of the instructor.

The acting workshop meets Thursday 5:15 to 6:45 and is $70 for one ten-week term. Mime will be held Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30, and costs $55. The Theatre Workshop meets Friday 4 to 6 and is $75 for each of three terms.

The high school acting lab, an in-depth scene study class which will emphasize techniques of play analysis, character development, and stage presence, will be held on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 8. Cost is $70. A high school mime class will meet Saturdays 10:45 to 12:15, also for $70. No experience is necessary for either class.

Mini-courses, which meet one to three times, will include stage makeup for grades 6-8, backstage at McCarter for grades 9-12, mime and movement for grades 2-5, and two special Halloween treats.

THE NICKEL MOVES

To Spacious New Store. The Nickel, a store which stocks everything for the outdoorsman, has moved from Nassau Street to spacious new surroundings at 830 State Highway 206. Parking is easy and shopping pleasant in surroundings of rustic charm. A comprehensive selection of outdoor clothing and equipment for backpacking, camping, mountaineering, white water adventures and ski touring is available and the warm, rugged clothing is ideal for general wear during a long, cold winter.

Stan Gdowski, the store's owner, is an outdoorsman himself, with firsthand knowledge of the requirements for each activity and nine years experience as owner of The Nickel. The store carries fine quality merchandise, some with a lifetime guarantee. Service is commensurate with quality and customer satisfaction the ultimate aim.

EQUIPMENT

Camping. Lightweight tents for general camping or back-packing are made by Sierra Designs, North Face and Eureka in geodesic dome shapes or A frames that will sleep 2 to 6 people. "Star Flight," a three season tent for backpacking or bicycling, by Sierra Designs, weighs only 6 pounds, but can sleep two. Made of flame-retardant nylon with reinforced seams, the tent is complete with aircraft aluminum poles and mosquito netting and sells for $135.

A large selection of single burner stoves and lanterns heat or illuminate with butane cartridges or liquid white gas; a lantern by GAZ ignites instantly when a switch is turned. Lightweight, durable cooking equipment from England, Switzerland and the United States is aluminum or stainless steel and nests together to save space. A full line of freeze-dried and dehydrated foods -- fruits, vegetables, meats and dinners -- is also available.

Back packs of canvas or nylon are small day packs that carry an extra set of clothing for backpacking or bicycling, or full frame back packs that hold a two weeks' supply of clothing and food. Sleeping bags, rectangular or mummy-shaped, made snug and warm with down or PolarGuard, bear the names of Camp 7, North Face, Alpine, or Sierra Designs. Altra offers day packs, tents, cargo bags and down comforters, vests and jackets in easy to sew kits that cost 20-60 percent less than their finished counterparts. Easy to follow instructions speed the sewing -- a vest can be finished in two evenings, a jacket in four.

Skiing, White Water, Mountaineering. Ski equipment includes skis -- waxable or no-wax -- with mohair, fish scale, mica or P-Tex bases for cross country skiing, and bindings, boots, poles, bib pants and knickers. Kayaks, paddles, flotation sets, hard hats, life jackets and waterproof pouches are available for white water activity. Ice axes, crampons, carabiners and ropes aid in mountain climbing.

BOOTS AND CLOTHING

More than 30 different styles of walking and hiking boots in various weights and heights are carried by The Nickel. Red Wing's waterproof hunting boot is 8" high with leather top and lining and corrugated vibram soles; the Vasque Cascade is a leather boot with a rough-out finish, scree collar, padding at ankles and a padded tongue. Both are available in 5 widths and in men's and women's sizes.

The versatile, fine quality clothing found at The Nickel, so suitable for outdoor sports, can also be used for general wear when the thermostats are turned down this winter. Warm shirts, pants, sweaters, vests, long underwear, woolen or insulated socks, down booties and down comforters conserve energy and help maintain body heat.

A wide selection of pants in wool, khaki, polyester or polyester and wool blends provide variations in warmth. Wool and wool blend shirts, cotton Chamois shirts and long sleeved cotton, or polyester and cotton, turtleneck shirts can be worn

ABOUT

SAFEGUARD
SHADE TREES

with Sam deTure

Woodwinds
Associates

More prized shade trees are being protected with lightning arresting systems than ever before.

Tall trees on hilltops or in exposed areas, and those dominant in landscaping around a home are prime attractants for lightning bolts. Oak, Elm, Pine, Ash, Poplar and Maple are rated in that order of lightning susceptibility.

The danger of lightning striking a tree is not only to the tree itself, but to persons and structures under or close to a tree during an electrical storm. One-fourth of all the 350 deaths attributed to lightning in the country every year occur among persons near or under a tree.

A tree can be turned into a giant lightning rod with lightning protection. This does not prevent a tree from being struck; it provides a safe path for an electrical discharge from and to the clouds and earth with no damage to a tree.

Some lightning-hit trees can be restored to health by bark tracing of loose bark, followed by feeding and other treatment. Lightning-struck trees may die suddenly, or slowly over a long period. Others hit by a "cold" stroke may not be badly injured.

WOODWINDS is happy to answer any question concerning your valuable trees and shrubs...please call us at 924-3500.

FALL BEAUTY SPECIALS

Now Arriving at Dorothea's. The fresh breezes of autumn have brought a windfall of good values in cosmetics and fragrances to Dorothea's pretty shop, where they are waiting for you.

You'll also find several lines of skin care products by Germaine Monteil, Frances Denney, DuBarry, Jacqueline Cochran and Helena Rubinstein and collections of make-up and collections of fashion's newest shades. Best of all, you'll find Dorothea Fretz, the shop's gracious owner, whose experience in skin analysis, knowledge of cosmetics and warm, forthright manner has won the trust and gratitude of her clientele.

Bargains in Beauty. Germaine Monteil is offering a brown corduroy clutch filled with cosmetics for eyes, cheeks, lips and fingertips -- a $35 value, for only $8.50. Color coordinated to give you Fall's "hot chestnut look," the group includes Nail Color I and Super Moist Lip Glosser in a russet shade, Acti-Vita Emollient Mascara, Bio-Miracle Lotion, for skin firming under night cream or moisturizer, and "Royal Secret" Eau de Parfum Spray. This fashionable, multipurpose bag with its cosmetic treasures is a fabulous buy and nicely priced for gifts.

Jean D'Albret's luxurious fragrances, "Casaque" and "Ecusson" in both Eau de Cologne and Natural Spray Parfum, are good values this Fall. Eau de Cologne, regularly $10, can be purchased for $5; Natural Spray Parfum, regularly $15, is also $5. Carven's "Spare Pair" features "Ma Griffe," a woody, refreshing floral in twin bottles of eau de toilette with a non aerosol spray. Usually $7 each, the price is now $8.50 for two -- keep one and give one as a gift.

BEAUTY IS HER BUSINESS: Dorothea Fretz, owner of "Dorothea," is experienced and knowledgeable in the care of the skin and the preparations needed for each skin type. Her pretty shop is stocked with skin care products, make-up and delightful fragrances, and many fall specials are being offered.

Germaine Monteil's "Royal Secret," a lingering, sophisticated fragrance in a Cologne Spray Concentree, selling for $10, is now $6.50 and "Galore," an elegant new floral, also a Cologne Spray Concentree, usually $10.50 is now $7.50. Nina Ricci's "L'Air du Temps," a spicy floral reminiscent of a fragrance garden, is offered in Eau de Toilette Spray or an Eau de Parfum flacon for $11 instead of the usual $15.

Capucci's "Yendi," exotic and feminine, and "Parce Que," provocative and sensual, are available in a special introductory size for $9, and also in large sizes of toilet water and soap. Jacqueline Cochran's "Flowing Velvet" preparations now being offered for $6.50 each are Hydrophilic lotion, usually $10.50, Super-Rich Night Cream, usually $10.50 and "Joy of Bathing" moisturizing bath oil, usually $10.

Skin Care. Fall brings many special events and holidays, and you'll want to look your loveliest for all of them. Dorothea suggests you begin special beauty care right now, using the fine Germaine Monteil products exclusive with her in Princeton.

The Clarity group was developed for oily skin and includes oil-free moisturizers for day and night, an oil absorbent liquid that acts as a blotter under make-up, and water-based foundations in light to dark shades. The Regine line for normal to oily skin has a Uni-Color Blusher -- like the remembered Tangee lipsticks -- that combines with your personal body chemistry and enhances your natural color. Super-Moist for normal to dry skins includes the color corrective creams -- green to tone down a too rosy skin, lavender to brighten a sallow complexion, Cream Blush pink which brings a glow to pale faces and Cream Blush bronze to suggest a healthy tan.

Every item in the Supplegen collection for very dry skin contains stabilized, soluble collagen, a concentrated protein which preserves the elasticity of the skin. The Acti-Vita products for ultra dry skin contain Germaine Monteil's richest formula, packed with vitamins and oils.

A companion to the brown corduroy fashion clutch with its collection of make-up items mentioned earlier, is the brown corduroy roll-up with its collection of skin care items, introducing you to a beneficial regimen of beauty. The roll contains Super-Moist Cleanser Lotion, Toning Rinse, Greaseless Moisturizer, Acti-Vita lipstick in a beautiful muted tone, a flacon of "Galore" spray Perfume and a supply of cotton balls in its own compartment. It is a $35 value for $8.50, with no other purchase required, and a wonderful treat for you or someone you cherish.

Dorothea has the pleasing Roger and Gallet soaps -- hand, bath or guest size -- and matching bath gel in Red Carnation, Vetiver, Jasmin, Rose, Sandalwood, Fougere, Lavender and Orchide, which are also available in an attractive round plastic container for convenience when traveling. The celebrated 4711 soaps, sold all over the world, are being offered at special prices this fall -- 6 cakes of the cold cream soap, regularly $10, are being offered for $7.50; 4 cakes of transparent glycerine soap, a $7 value, can be purchased for $4.50.

Dorothea is located at 195 Nassau street, in Thompson Court, and the shop is Number 20. Store hours are 10-6 Monday through Saturday; closed Tuesday.

State Council on Arts Awards $1,500 Grant to Princetonian

A colorist with sharp-eyed knowledge of light refraction and the luminous quality a print or drawing can have when layers of color are painstakingly built up, one after another, has won a $1,500 grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts in — to her considerable surprise — sculpture.

Jane Kent is a Princeton University teaching assistant in the University's graphic arts program. For 15 hours each week, she gives the overview beginner's course. For 60 hours each week, she works on her own creations.

ART In Princeton

She won her state award with a related series of four untitled sets, each combining a print with a three-dimensional form. The first two sets have already been sold; the third is shown in the photograph on this page.

Explaining that an artist "sees" and does not "write," Ms. Kent acknowledges that she finds it difficult to be articulate about her work. With a slow, quiet smile, she adds, "My stuff can be very vague."

Nevertheless, she explains clearly that she is dealing in her art with loneliness, emptiness, anonymity, dreaming, imagination.

"SCULPTURE IS WHAT THE PRINT IS." That's what artist Jane Kent says of Set Number 3, shown here, one of a linked set of four that won her a state arts grant. The three-dimensional form in the foreground is pink-painted plexiglas resting on clear glass on top of a four-foot piece of aliver birch, carefully sanded and worked with talcum powder for "a soft dustiness." The form's shadow has been painted on the glass, exactly the way the shadow of the raspberry-colored pinnacle in the print reflects onto the paper. "I purposely left a space between the two," Ms. Kent says; "I want to place the viewer in proximity, but not significantly sitting there."

"All abstract. I never use people."

Ms. Kent studied print-making at the Philadelphia College of Art, and she is on familiar terms with all the print-making techniques: "You should be versed in whatever the image needs," she reflects.

Her best training experience, particularly in etching, was in London, where she was retained by several studios putting out limited editions.

"I have great respect for the hand-done work in England," she says. "I learned to mix my inks from the dried pigment — a way that hasn't changed much since Rembrandt's time."

Countless Drawings. Along the way, Ms. Kent began to use the sticks that she now incorporates into almost all of her "landscapes." In Set Number 3, pictured here, the sticks appear in the bottom of the print.

Before any of her work reaches the completed stage, it has gone through countless drawings — "As substantial as the prints" — while she works out her ideas.

With the $1,500, she will move into her next project. The print will consist of etchings on copper, which is "enormously expensive — $400 for one print" — and sculptures will be smaller than those she has recently been using. She would like to do the sculptures in lead, because the greyness of the metal would correspond to the color in the prints — and she sees "colors" in gray beyond what the uninformed eye might see.

Since her student years, Jane Kent has exhibited in New York at the Dreyfus Gallery, in the Princeton Graphic Arts collection and at the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania. Her remaining sets will also be on view at Drew University in Madison, New Jersey, in September.

When was the first high school football game ever played? ... The first was in 1876 between Andover (Mass.) against Exeter (N.H.) ... The next high schools to play each other in football were Boston Latin vs. Boston English, and Baltimore City vs. Baltimore Polytech High ... From that scattered beginning, high school football grew until now over 14,000 high schools in the nation play football ... By the way, the first NIGHT GAME in high school history wasn't played 'till 1928, at Westville, Ill.

What are the most games in a row any high school football team ever won? ... The all-time national record was set by Hudson High of Hudson, Mich. ... They won 72 straight between 1968 and 1975.

I bet you didn't know ... that many health insurance plans for families do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Did you know that of all the big league baseball teams in this century, only 8 of them ever won over 70 percent of their games over a full season? ... And no team has done it since 1954 ... The only 8 big league teams ever to win more than 70 percent of their games in this century are the 1954 Indians ... 1939 Yanks ... 1931 A's ... 1927 Yanks ... 1909 Pirates ... 1907 Cubs ... 1906 Cubs ... and 1902 Pirates.

on the other hand, be aided by two probabilities: first, the likelihood that four of the seven other Ivies will be no stronger than they were a year ago; second, that tailback Cris Crissy in his junior year will develop into the first superstar to wear Orange and Black since Walt Snickerberger became the league's MVP five years ago. If he does, the Tigers should benefit more from Crissy's performance than from Snickerberger's because the supporting cast will be markedly stronger.

Cris Crissy
The Wheels under the Tiger

Problems Elsewhere, Too. If Princeton still has far to go on the road to regain respectability, a majority of its other 1979 opponents in the league seem to have their problems, as well. For example, Cornell finished fourth, .241 percentage points behind Brown and Yale, without managing to do more than break even. Harvard and Columbia tied for fifth place with records as low as 2-4-1, and after Princeton (at 1-4-2) came Penn with a 1-5-1 mark.

This year, Cornell must solve several major replacement problems, the greatest of which is the graduation of tailback Joe Holland, the league's leading running back and top scorer. Harvard, bailed out repeatedly by quarterback Larry Brown, who was tops in total offense, will not find his caliber again and its defensive difficulties appear to remain. Columbia, a four-point victor over the Tigers last fall, and Penn, a 21-0 victim, begin the year with more problems than Princeton, which should contain them both this season for the first time since 1970.

Frank Navarro is hopeful that the key to early success lies in ability of the Tigers' offense to resume approximately where it left off last fall (three touchdowns or better in each of the last four games) while the defense is gaining in experience and maturity. To have this happen, he is banking on the veterans at the skill positions: senior quarterbacks Steve Reynolds and Ken Barrett, split end Rich Keefe, slot back Lew Leone and particularly tailback Cris Crissy. The problem, of course, is that the entire interior line graduated, but Navarro has said he would rather know what his quarterbacks can do, have other veterans as ball carriers and receivers, and have to rebuild up front, than vice versa.

If Crissy's 1979 season matches his statistics of the final two-thirds of his sophomore year, the Tigers will have a superstar of considerable brilliance with another year ahead of him.

LETTERMAN LOST
Pellegrini Gone at Tackle. The last thing a football team which has to rebuild its whole interior line wants to have happen is to lose a letterman at tackle before practice even begins. That's what happened to Princeton Friday when senior Dave Pellegrini was not among the 90-plus candidates for the 1979 team who reported to Coach Frank Navarro.

The 6-3, 250-lb. lineman (who weighed only 110 pounds as a high school freshman but gained steadily through weight training) had been tabbed as the starter at left tackle, replacing Chet Szablak. He is, however, captain of the track team, which competes from January into June, and has decided to forego football in favor of a possible shot at the Moscow Olympics. He throws the discus, shot, hammer and 35-lb. weight.

Into his place will go someone considerably larger but wholly inexperienced at the varsity level. Weighing 290 and standing 6-6, sophomore Mark Rifkin has gotten Navarro's nod over several other possible choices. He is likely to be the only member of his class in the starting lineup at Hanover two weeks from Saturday.

The problem of creating depth on the offensive line was also made somewhat more difficult when junior Stewart Finney told the coaching staff that he would not play this year. Listed as the backup center for two-year letterman Ted Sotir, he is the son of Reddy Finney, the All-American center on Charlie Caldwell's unbeaten team of 1950.

TITLE DEFENDED
Hankin Again Senior Champion. Walter Hankin shot a 36-hole total of 161 at Springdale Golf Club in

After a slow start, during which he averaged only 17 yards rushing in his first three games, he topped 100 twice (136 against Colgate, 143 against Penn) and scored seven touchdowns -- including two each against Penn and Harvard.

He scored on 41 and 52-yard pass plays in the Dartmouth and Harvard games, in both instances giving eye-catching examples of broken-field running and tackle-breaking. When he was named all-Ivy on the strength of such performances, he became the first Princetonian to be so honored since the late Dan Sachs in 1957.

SPORTS
In Princeton

If Crissy, whose danger to opposing teams will inevitably make him the target of perfectly legal gang-tackling, stays injury-free, the Tigers will have a potential game-breaker in their lineup. His presence can go far toward making the difference between two games in the won column and five, and in view of that truly rugged Dartmouth-Rutgers-Brown trilogy which opens the schedule, any logical expectation of success this fall cannot exceed that.

Soccer Added to Fall Sports Clinic Set for Saturday in Palmer Stadium

The Princeton University-First National Bank Football Clinic will expand this fall to include soccer for the first time in its nine-year history. Last fall's clinic attracted 500 boys and girls between 7 and 14.

The Fall Sports Clinic will be held on Saturday from 9:30 to 11 at Palmer Stadium. It will feature Football Coach Frank Navarro and Soccer Coach Bill Muse, in addition to players from both teams. Youngsters who attend will receive specialized instruction at several positions in the sport of their choosing and a well-rounded overview of that sport.

The clinic will be the first part of a doubleheader that includes a scrimmage between Tiger football players in their first action of the season and Wilkes College. The clinic and scrimmage, both with free admission, offer youngsters and other residents of the Princeton area an opportunity to meet with Coach Navarro, his staff, and the 1979 Tiger team, and then to see the squad in action. The clinic also gives youngsters the chance to learn from Bill Muse, coach of the U.S. Junior National soccer squad, and his Tiger team.

After the clinic and before the scrimmage, which is scheduled for 11:15 a.m., lucky ticket holders will receive official footballs, regulation soccer balls and tickets to Princeton home football games.

smart enough to learn every position on the team if we ask him but we don't want to put that kind of pressure on him."

Adams, co-captain of the team along with Leroy Hunninghake, is expected to start as a split end.

Wingback. Steve Budd, a 5-11, 180-pound junior, heads a list of wingback candidates. He played both wing and fullback last year and Beachell reports he is hoping he really comes on as a wingback this fall. "He has

Although the Princeton High School football team scored in every one of its nine games last year, in seven of those nine it scored only once. The Little Tigers finished with a 2-6-1 record — the worst in the five years Jim Beachell has served as coach.

"We're not out to score a lot this year," commented Beachell. "We're a ball control team; we try to control the ball and not make any errors."

But while Beachell doesn't envision blowing any team out this year, he is optimistic about the offense. "I think it's going to come back."

One reason is Paul Miles, a 5-10, 175-pound tailback who gained 700 yards rushing last year. "That's pretty good for a sophomore," observed Beachell. Beachell is hoping that the fleet Miles, a touch-down threat anytime he breaks into the clear, can repeat.

The overriding question, Beachell reported, is not whether PHS can score "but whether we can stop the other team from scoring."

"I think we can be considered a dark horse," he continued, commenting on his team's chances in the Colonial Valley Conference league. "Everything is going to ride on the defensive play . . . who we can stop."

Last year the Little Tigers gave up 198 points to the opposition while scoring 98 of its own. To win, Beachell is going to have to reverse those figures. There will be a lot of keys to how PHS will fare this season, he stated; "defense is definitely going to be one of them."

14 Lettermen Return. Last year Beachell greeted eight returning lettermen, a varsity and junior varsity that numbered just 40, but a large freshman class of 34. This fall he has 14 lettermen back. The squad includes 12 seniors, 17 juniors, 23 sophomores (hanging onto freshman players is always a problem claims Beachell) and another large freshman class that Beachell feels will probably reach 30.

Unfortunately, the coaching staff to teach this year's larger squad has been cut in half. Lawrence Parker, like Beachell, a former PHS player, returned to Trenton High School where he is a teacher and coach, to coach the freshman team. Mark Perlman left to take a teaching position in Las Vegas, Nev., and Ray Pettus,

All had joined Beachell's staff for the first time last year. In replacement, Beachell reports that Russ Pritchard, a physics teacher and wrestling coach at Trenton High, will assist him but Pritchard has had no football coaching experience.

Also helping out will be Joe Smith, an education teacher at Trenton State College who played halfback and defensive corner back at Massillon High School in Ohio, once considered one of the top high school teams in the nation and once coached by Paul Brown. Smith also played a little at Rutgers University but like Pritchard he has had no football coaching experience.

Beachell said he would like to have a staff of seven.

For the moment his staff consists of Bill Cirullo and John Halpin. One thing Beachell was committed to last year, even with a small squad, was platooning. There are advantages and disadvantages to platooning, he conceded, "but one of the advantages is morale when you play as many kids as you can."

"But you can't platoon unless you have enough coaches to do the job. Right now my main concern is to get some experienced coaches for the freshmen."

The Backfield. The PHS backfield is young — surprisingly there is not a single senior candidate — and Beachell adds what depth he has doesn't have a lot of experience. Nevertheless, with some players like Miles returning, Beachell predicted: "I think our front players will be as good as a lot of players around, without a doubt."

At tailback, one of the skill positions in the Multiple I offense installed last year by Beachell, is Miles. "He is definitely our number one starting tailback," stated Beachell. He's keeping his fingers crossed that Miles doesn't get hurt because the only backup at the moment is sophomore Wayne Davis (5-11, 150) a speedster who was tailback on the freshman squad.

Another speedy candidate, sophomore Lamont Fletcher, is out after suffering a finger injury during the summer. Beachell added he could also move Mark Adams to tailback if necessary.

"Adams (5-8, 150) has outstanding talent. He could move right in and do an outstanding job for us. He's good speed and a lot of athletic ability."

Also being considered is sophomore Paul Bessire (5-7, 150), "an outstanding hitter," who shared the fullback position on the freshman team last year with McKeller. Two more are juniors Danny Miller (5-8, 150) and Judd Petrone (6-2, 160).

At this early juncture, Beachell said that he and his staff were looking at a lot of people "until they find the ones who want it bad enough."

Quarterback. For the past four years, quarterback has been a sore spot for Beachell, who says to have a championship team a coach has to have a quarterback who has been with the program for four years. Beachell has lost four unexpectedly in the past five years, including Todd Blackledge and Tom Seiler when their families moved away.

This year he has returning junior Dave Dinella (5-10, 160), who saw limited action at the position. Untested, Dinella had to overcome a lack of confidence but he came on strong at the end, according to Beachell, particularly in the final game with Trenton High.

"He's working hard. He went to quarterback camp this summer and I think he can do the job," said Beachell. "He's the most experienced we have right now with Hunninghake as backup."

Still, Beachell allowed that he is looking at a number of players, "trying to envision quarterbacks." There's Mike MacManus (5-9, 168) a transfer student from Illinois where he was a linebacker who "so far, looks real good. He has good athletic ability." MacManus is a junior.

Other juniors getting a chance are Danny Miller, and Tony Cedino (5-8, 135). Sophomores include David Barclay (5-9, 168) a part time quarterback as a freshman; Scott Porreca (5-6, 135) and Todd Breithaupt (5-5, 125).

Two more sophomore candidates for signal caller are Dave Meyers (5-10, 138) a left-hander from Virginia where he was a cornerback, and Peter Nelson (5-6, 135), a transfer from Hun. Nelson did not play football for the Red Raiders, Beachell reported.

It's Big For PHS. As far as backfields go, this one isn't heavy but Beachell countered, "it is a big backfield for us. You won't see too many 200 pounders on any Princeton team."

"We believe with that talent

INTO THE BREACH: Joe Smith (left) a graduate education teacher at Trenton State College, and Russ Pritchard, a physics teacher at Trenton High are assisting PHS coach Jim Beachell this fall. Beachell needs all the coaching help he can get after his staff was cut in half with the departure of three former coaches.

Miles has and the ability of our two fullbacks in blocking and carrying the ball we'll be an interior threat. With our wingmen Budd and Bessire and a couple of other kids we can go outside. And considering our speed as a counterthreat... we're ready to roll."

So far everything is speculation. Full pads didn't go on until Saturday. By necessity, there will be a lot of shuffling and maneuvering of personnel until things begin to use a favorite word of Beachell's -- to "solidify" before the home opener Friday afternoon, September 21, against Allentown.

Beachell will get his first game condition looks on Saturday when the Little Tigers scrimmage Princeton Day School, a scrimmage Beachell says he has been trying to arrange for a number of years. The following week it will scrimmage Freehold Borough and South Hunterdon.

Next week, Town Topics will take a look at the PHS line.

successful defense of his title as senior champion. Bill Quackenbush, the runner-up, was four strokes back.

The pair have dominated the event for the past four years. Hankin won in '78 and again last summer. Quackenbush, the Princeton University golf coach, was the winner in 1977 and runner-up the past two years.

Winner in the 55-59 bracket was Kemp Roll, with a net 134 based on full handicap. Charlie Hurford at 142 led those 60 to 64 while Charlie Bardwell at 135 was first in the 65-69 division. Kline Fulmer, 157, won the 70-74 tournament, while those 75 and over were led by Mickey Shannon, who posted a 147.

The annual President's Cup Tournament will begin Saturday when the qualifying round is held. Using full handicap, the low 32 players will then begin 18-hole match play elimination Sunday. Rob Hargraves is the defending champion.

TENNIS TITLE WON

By Lawrenceville Resident. Kenneth Wilson, a 56-year old resident of Lawrenceville, won the National Senior Grass Courts Championship at the Germantown Cricket Club in Philadelphia Saturday. He won in straight sets from Bobby Riggs, now in his 60's and once nationally-ranked, 7-5, 6-0.

Wilson trailed in the first set 5-2, but staved off seven set points during the course of a five-game rally. He then ran off the second set at love.

Wilson's victory was scored in the bracket for those 55 and over. In the finals of doubles for players 45 and over, he and Marty Devlin, also of Lawrenceville, lost, 6-2, 6-2.
